elementary and secondary english language learning, grades preK–12
Go all-in for your English learners. Meaningful connections between assessment, instruction, and professional development accelerate language proficiency. It’s the first system to include Common Core State Standards in conjunction with English proficiency levels. All at your fingertips. All in one place.

Instruction  Make an impact through integration. Instructional materials focus on the development of language proficiency and academic knowledge. They also connect assessment data, professional-development strategies, and progress-monitoring information in one central location. See Cornerstone, Keystone and Language Central™ on pages 6–18.

Assessment  Inform instruction with new assessment tools. Diagnostic and solutions-oriented approaches systematically benchmark, monitor, and track both student progress and instructional best practices. New EL reports use normative data to compare the academic progress of ELs with that of their peers. See aimsweb® and SELP, on pages 73–78.

Professional Development  Build the capacity of all teachers and streamline instructional strategies. The system provides professional development that is rooted in research, featuring the only empirically validated model of instruction for English learners. See SIOP® and A+RISE® on pages 85–91.

“The content in Longman Keystone is interesting and relevant to my students’ lives and provides an opportunity for them to fine-tune their English while at the same time strengthen their academic vocabulary. The projects and Reader’s Theater activities lend themselves to technological projects that can be transferred from unit to unit. The continuity and flow of the series has helped my ELL students gain confidence and succeed.”

—Ariana L. Leonard
Pasco County School District
Land O’Lakes, FL
For newcomers
A perfect stepping-stone for learners with little or no English proficiency. See pages 13 and 19 for ISBNs and prices.

“After using Keystone Levels D and E, I was impressed with the students’ increase in academic language usage in classroom discussions. Many students returned from the mainstream classes excited to inform me that similar material had been discussed in science, history, or language arts and that they had participated for the first time in the classroom discussion.”

—Tom Ressler
North Kansas City School District
North Kansas City, MO
